However, in most pieces of writing you will need to present your position on a topic or comment on what you describe. Your lecturer will want to know what you think based on what you have read, and what conclusions you draw as a result of your research. You do this by developing your own academic 'voice' in which to speak to your reader.

But having a voice is something that is often taken for granted and used for gossip, hate, and bitter words. Instead lifting others, or ourselves, up, we choose to tear people down with what we say. It is important to use your voice for the positive because whether you know it or not, your voice can do a lot.
